

PALEODIET MEETS PALEOPATHOLOGY

USING SKELETICAL BIOGEOCHEMISTRY TO LINK ANCIENT HEALTH, FOOD AND MOBILITY

October, 2015

Facultade de Bioloxía, Santiago de Compostela, Spain

Workshop organized by "Rede CONSILIENCIA" project (R2014/001)

with the collaboration of

Olalla López-Costas (USC)
Aurora Grandal d'Anglade (UDC)
Gundula Müldner (U Reading)

15th October

15.00-15.15 Opening

15.15-16.00 Paleodiet and paleopathology: an overview
"Elemental approaches to past human lives"
which will combine the overview of paleodiet
and paleopathology

Tamsin O'Connell, University of Cambridge

16.00-17.00 Diet and mortality crisis

Diet and mortality: Famine, feast and fertility.

Julia Beaumont, University of Bradford

17.00- 17.30 Coffee break (fika)

17.30- 18.30 Communications for call

18.30 - Visit to Compostela city

16th October

09.00-10.00 Growth, metabolic conditions and stable isotopes

Stable isotopes analysis of diet in past populations: delving into the interplay of dietary choices, growth patterns, and health outcomes.
Andrea Waters-Rist, University of Leiden.

10.00-11.00 Diet, health and infectious diseases

Diet and disease in 19th and 20th Century
Denmark. Marie Louise Schjellerup Jørkov, University of Copenhagen

11.00-11.30 Coffee break (fika)

11.30-12.30 Poster session

12.30-15.30 Lunch

15.00-16.00 Ancient DNA and stable isotopes

The best of both worlds, when stable isotopes and aDNA meet in an archaeological context. Kerstin Lidén, Stockholm University.

16.00-17.00 New perspectives from the animal studies

Stable isotopes and DNA in Paleontology: beyond the family diet. Aurora Grandal d'Anglade, Universidade de A Coruña

17.00- 17.30 Coffee break (fika)

17.30- 18.30 Communications for call

18.30 -19.30 Discussion

Olalla López-Costas, U. de Santiago de Compostela and
U. of Stockholm, and Gundula Müldner, U. of Reading

Call for papers and Registration

The Call for Papers (oral communications or posters) is available at our webpage and the deadline has been extended until the 6th of September 2015.

Registration forms are available in the web page, and the deadline is the 25th of September
<http://paleodietmeetspaleopathology.com/>

The registration is totally free of cost!!

More information: paleodietmeetspaleopathology@gmail.com

<http://paleodietmeetspaleopathology.com/>

Looking forward seeing you in Santiago de Compostela !!!